

MASTICATORY-RELEASABLE DENTIFRICE ARTICLE

Abstract of the Disclosure

Readily retrievably selectable from commercially available dentifrices, a selected dentifrice is solid-state dosage charged within a relatively-thin readily-masticatable and hydroscopic/salivascopeic envelope material. The envelope material is preferably of conventional normally-solid thermoplastic gelatins, readily commercially available in various forms such as, inter alia, chargeably-receiveable capsules, in laminatable thin-sheets, etc. Plural such dentifrice-enveloped articles can be assembled into a storage vessel and thence periodically retrieved individually at subsequent teethbrushing sessions.
